I am writing to you today to request Cancellation of general-use registration of second-generation rodenticides.

These rodenticides are devastating to your environment, wildlife and public health. They have no place in general use. They are the lazy and careless alternative that prevents the general public from using less harmful and more human alternatives. We like to believe that people will do the right thing given the choice; that is not usually true---people normally choose the least costly and easiest route regardless of the impacts. EPA represents the best interest of Americans and the environment (hence, environmental protection agency).

Do the right thing for the benefit of all Americans----cancel general registration of second-generation rodenticides.
